Alt Attribute Description and Long Tail Keyword Utilization

At Collins, accessibility is a top priority. We have ensured that all images used in our study guides have descriptive alt attributes to provide an inclusive experience for visually impaired students. For example, the alt attribute for an image depicting a graph explaining quadratic equations could be "Collins GCSE Math Grade Revision: Understand quadratic equations through a detailed graph analysis."

Furthermore, we are committed to utilizing long tail keywords that accurately describe the content of our study guides. By incorporating specific keywords such as "2020 autumn exams," "2021 summer exams," and "GCSE grade revision," we ensure that our study guides are easily discoverable and relevant to students preparing for these specific exams.

In a world where exams seem daunting, Collins GCSE Grade Revision is here to support you every step of the way.
