I want to thank you for the countless moments of happiness and laughter. Whether it's your silly antics, your funny little barks, or your playful nature, you never fail to brighten my day. Your presence brings warmth and comfort to our home, and I can't imagine it without you.

Our daily walks together have become my favorite ritual. Exploring the world with you by my side is a magical experience. The way you wag your tail in excitement, sniffing every corner and engaging with other dogs, fills me with awe. You remind me to appreciate the beauty in simple things and to cherish every moment.

I am grateful for the lessons you have taught me about loyalty and unconditional love. Your unwavering devotion has shown me the true meaning of friendship. Your ability to forgive and forget, even when I make mistakes, inspires me to be a better person every day. You have made me realize that life's greatest treasures are often found in the most unlikely places.

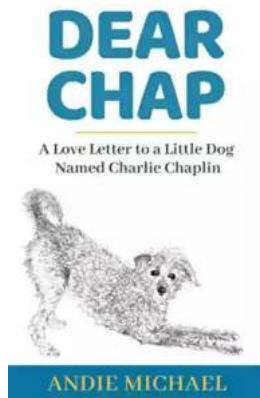

It's incredible how much comfort you provide during times of sadness or stress. When tears roll down my cheeks, you are always there to offer a gentle paw or cuddle up beside me, reminding me that I am never alone. You have a way of making everything better and filling my heart with love, even on the darkest days.

Charlie, you are not just a dog; you are a cherished member of our family. The unconditional love that flows between us is unmatched, and I am forever grateful for the bond we share. You have taught me more about myself and life than anyone else ever could.

So, in this love letter to you, I want to say thank you. Thank you for being my friend, my confidant, and my little bundle of joy. You have brought so much happiness into my life, and I promise to cherish and protect you for as long as we are together.

With all my love,

What do you do when your best friend dies...

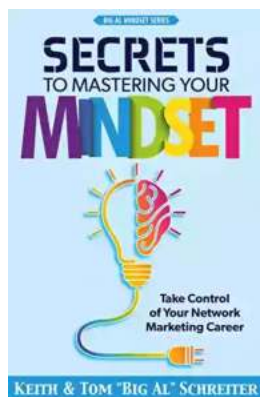

...that is, if your best friend was a dog and you'd lived alone together, leaving no one with whom to reminisce? You write.

Andie Michael decided to do just that. She poured her feelings into what would become a letter to her dog, Chap – memorializing his sweet, adorable personality and every experience that she didn't want to let fade into time -- and thanking him for giving her life meaning at times when it seemed to have none.

That letter grew into Dear Chap: A Love Letter To a Little Dog Named Charlie Chaplin.

With its heartfelt message and the simple, intimate voice in which it's written, Dear Chap speaks directly to the 2/3 of Americans who are pet owners, on behalf of the millions for whom pets have become family members, and especially to those whose pets are or have been their best friends. You are not alone.
