I thought I was strong enough to go along with the plan. Fake dating heart throb, Cayden Rivers, seemed simple enough.

Apparently not.

I am just trying to survive. Spending the summer with my loosey-goosey Dad in Hollywood, CA is just enough to send my OCD tendencies into hyperdrive.

But Mom thinks it's good for me. And my best friend Michelle has agreed to come along.

I should have known better than to get on the plane.

First Dad drops his soon-to-be wife on me. Then I run into Cayden Rivers, the player of Hollywood. He seems just as trapped in his life as I feel in mine.

Which is weird. And the more I get to know him, the more I find out, maybe we're not that different.

So when he asks me to fake date him to help his image, I stupidly agree. Everything goes according to plan until my feelings start to grow and I can't tell if Cayden feels the same or if he's just acting.

My life spirals out of control and the only person I want to turn to is Cayden.

I just hope my heart is the one he doesn't break.
