A practical archery guide, co-authored by Maurice Thompson, author of The Witchery of Archery and President of the Grand National Archery Association of the United States. In this book, the authors give a lot of practical advice for long-range archery:“An Exhaustive Manual of Long-Range Bow Shooting for the use of those Archers who wish to become Contestants at the Grand National Association Meetings.”“The difference between the proper method of shooting at short, that is, point blanc range, and that of shooting at the great distances used in the York Round, is radical. One may be a crack shot at forty yards and under, and yet find himself unable to hit the target once out of twenty shots at one hundred or even eighty yards. To the close observer the reason of this is plain.”and“In the following chapters we have adopted no man’s theory, as a theory. We have studied the York Round on the range with bow in hand, making our notes of results from practical experience. The meth–ods we describe and recommend are those we have found to stand the test of repeated careful trial un–der the conditions of out-door shooting. Many of them have been practiced by the best archers of England, while some are our own discoveries.”This is the perfect archery tutorial for beginners and advanced
